Q: How to consume Json & Http web service in codeigniter I am developing a social network application using

---

CodeIgniter and I need to consume web service by posting a comment to someone's wall. However I have no clue about the integration of accessing Json webservices and php in codeigniter. Can anyone guide me in the right direction? A: I'm pretty sure Codeigniter ships with a JSON library. If not you can load it up:

$this->load->library('json'); $this->load->library('form_validation');
$this->load->helper('date');
$comment_data = array(
'username'=> $username, 'body'=> $body, 09e8f5149f

specified time. Add this to the list of screen savers with amazing features, its like watching a snowflake fall into a glass of water. This is because when it gets to the bottom of the glass, the user can save it as a photograph to their computer!

Thanks for sharing this with us! The next time your winter day turns into a blizzard, it never seems like a bad time to spread some holiday cheer.

You might not be able to make yourself a hot cocoa, but you can still enjoy some excellent amusement at the comfort of your home. Put Snowflakes to the test, a screening application that lets you photograph the snowflakes and share your works with your family and friends. But before you get too excited, be aware that this is one of the family friendly screen-savers, which means it is not supposed to appear in your Windows taskbar. Otherwise, it can easily be spotted. Once you install Snowflakes, you are immediately greeted by the pre-screen saver presentation, which lets you choose between some options, such as which files to view, display themes or which screen resolution to use. Choose to be left alone and let Snowflakes do its job, or you can customize the screen-saver. Once you navigate to Settings -> Options, you will find you have quite a few options here. The screen-saver settings section contains some useful information, such as the number of Snowflakes that fall in each second. Then scroll down to the Settings -> Background Music section. You can add background music here, like you can the theme of your screen-saver. You can also decide what Snowflakes you want to appear in the background and where you want them to appear, either all over the screen or inside a particular window. You can

---
