Board games are known to enable a child to experience the thrill and excitement of operating a toy in a simulated game condition. One example of such a game is the Mattel Television (TM) Preschool Football set. While the game may be suitable for a child of preschool age, there has heretofore been no table game which is adapted for children of school age or older.Q: Grouping

Postoperative response of primary breast cancer to neoadjuvant therapy: implications for assessment of response and of pathological outcome. We compared primary breast cancers undergoing neoadjuvant treatment and their response to treatment with a set of clinical measures, including mammographic and histopathological changes and with subgroups of tumours characterized by gene expression profiles (GEP) of their stem/progenitor and non-stem progeny. Twelve primary human breast cancers were subjected to neoadjuvant therapy and the response was studied by serial mammographic examination, clinical and radiological review and core needle biopsy. Primary tumours and metastatic lymph nodes were studied histopathologically.
