Throw all those useless stretchy arms to the curb because player 2 is now the only one who can play. About the Developer: Zombie Studios is an independent, first-person multiplayer basketball game developer and publisher based in Santa Monica, California. The company was formed in 2010 by several former ToeJam & Earl and MDK developers and artists after splitting with Z-Man Games, which developed the Batshark, Ragnarok Online, and PlanetSide2 franchises. Originally based in Los Angeles, the team relocated to Santa Monica in 2012. About the Creators: After being part of the ToeJam & Earl, MDK, and Batshark franchises, Zombie Studios was established as a successor to those games in 2010. Itself an independent company, it evolved into a product-focused studio that delivers unique and innovative multiplayer experiences through the lens of games. DumpsterDash Rocket... Bike... Partial hepatectomy enhances the expression of heat shock protein-70 in the regenerating livers of rats. The expression of the heat-shock protein (hsp) 70 in the rat liver after partial hepatectomy was studied, and the maximum and minimum expressions of this protein were found in the growing hepatocytes at 4 and 24 hours after the operation, respectively. The level of hsp-70 expression increased gradually as the hepatic regenerating process progressed and reached a peak level on the 14th postoperative day; the amount of liver regeneration correlated with that of hsp-70 ($r = 0.89$, $p < 0.001$)

Nijowari: Where Angels Fall is a rich, kinetic visual novel with two main characters, each one with its own story and its own life. Follow our heroes' steps in this daring mix of plot-driven and slice-of-life visual novel with heavy character development, an enticing yet dangerous world, and hard-hitting special effects.

William Steele "I was just an ordinary kid when my world blew up." William Steele, a young man with a calling and our first main character, discovers that his region is home and that is worth protecting. Bent on helping his community, he ends up becoming a "fixer", a counselor, sometimes friend, always driven to help people who deserve it.

The present invention relates to a method and apparatus for the preferential removal of carbon monoxide and/or sulphur from gas streams containing carbon monoxide or sulphur (in their free state or as compound gases, particularly hydrogen sulphide), wherein the streams are prepared for gasification, particularly gasification processes such as coal gasification, coke oven gasification, gasification of gasifying feed containing organic matter, incineration of waste, and so forth. The treatment of the gas stream is generally such that the gas is cooled, and thence the contents are fed to a gas-washing plant, and, successively, sulphur is stripped, carbon monoxide is separated, and carbon dioxide is removed in a downstream separation plant. The gas is most commonly injected into an amine-containing aqueous medium, to remove the sulphur impurity prior to combustion, preferably at elevated temperature (e.g. elevated temperature 80-200xc2x0 C.) and at atmospheric pressure; and the carbon dioxide is removed in a conventional manner of absorption, separation and storage. In gas cleaning processes, the specific performance is generally expressed in terms of the kilograms of impurities per cubic meter (kg/m³) of gas treated. The oxygen, sulphur, carbon monoxide and carbon dioxide contents in such gases generally varies significantly. The carbon monoxide content
