A Day in the Life of a TV Producer In this video, we take a look at what a day in the life of a TV producer might look like from start to finish. Is there a morning meeting? What's the main focus of the day? Who writes the script? Who sets the storyboards? And does the schedule change throughout the day? Let's find out! This video shows how the modern TV industry looks like, how our creative life cycle looks like in business - from idea creation and concept development to story-boarding and a writing process up to the shooting. The first part of the video is a series of 5 "unfiltered" creative sketches by 2-day trained story-board artists. We believe good storyboards are one of the key components of a good story. This is why we created a 5-day story-board workshop. We look forward to seeing you at one of our next storyboard training seminars - where we take you through the process and prepare you to be a great creative storyboard artist! Thank you so much for watching! Show more Show less
