A: I was able to fix this issue by using Oracle's feeder mechanism which is available on MSDN here. To execute your connection string you need to execute the following statement: DECLARE _sService NVARCHAR2(128)

:='me@msdn.microsoft.com'; _sUser NVARCHAR2(100) := 'YourLogin'; _psPassword NVARCHAR2(100) := 'YourPassword'; BEGIN DBMS_CONNECTED.CONNECT(_sService, _sUser, _psPassword, 'oracle'); END; After the statement executes your login is successfully established with the Oracle DB server. “It’s a daunting task, and we’ll be making every effort to do justice to the incredible legacy that has been left to us,” says Obituary founder Grant Jandras.
“There will be a healthy proportion of material that’s never been released, and we’re really looking forward to sharing that stuff with people who appreciate the band.” It’s no secret that Obituary’s legacy has been a touchy one, particularly with their fans — primarily the horror crowd. And with the number of releases on the way, it can’t really be helped, but it begs the question of what to expect from this documentary: A band that has sold only 750,000 records combined during their lifetime and the only hardcore band to have lost their drummer to suicide? Will all the drama, substance abuse, and bad-luck stories spoil the film? How will the horror community, even the fans who have written the band off, react? Obituary Films is going into this one armed with a lot of questions, but also a lot of trust for the band, which they already have. “We’re putting a lot of stock and a lot of faith in the people we’re working with,” Jandras says, “because I can tell by talking to them that they think we’re doing the right thing and that they believe in what we’re doing. And I think they’re going to be good-nat 6d1f23a050
